The Town Record

By MONTE DAYTON

The group threatening to recall the council on the city manager controversy, spear-headed Monday night by ABE RABINOWITZ of Westlake, has as its members in good standing PAUL GREEN and FRED BERTETTA.

Ex-mayor Green was felled at the polls last year while Bertetta was given his walking papers as planning commissioner by the new council.

HENRY DOELGER, we hear, will upset precedent in the near future by making his next trip airborne.

Strictly a rail and sail man up to now, it will be Henry's first time up in an airplane. Destination is said to be Europe.

Broadmoor police reserve Lt. WILLIAM WATTS, Garden Village, is a cousin of WILL ROGERS.

Doesn't that make him a second cousin of HERB SHRINER?

Footsteps: Dropping in for the transportation meeting Tuesday night at the council chambers was ELLEN DE BERNARDI, recently elected vice-president of Jeff Hi student body, to get a glimpse of big brother, COUNCILMAN MICHAEL, in action on the transit committee.

AUGUST CONCI, planter extraordinary and DC's chief gardener, reports that 50,000 ice plants have been put in on both sides of Alemany boulevard in Westlake.

"And it didn't cost the city a thing. We got the plants free," says he. The Crocker hills do look a little barren now.

Two crooks burgled a cleaning shop at 6772 Mission last week. They carried the cash register away to get at the loot.

There was only $5 in the till, but the owner places the value of the register at $200. Nobody's happy. The heisters got only $5 and the proprietor is out $205.

MRS. DICK MILKOVICH, wife of the former DC rec worker, now at San Bruno, went fishing recently for the first time in her life.

On one of her first casts (we're told this is a bonafide fish story) she hooked, then lost a 20-pound steelhead.

It's better she lost it. The poor veteran anglers who've trudged the streams all year without a steelie nibble would have had breakdowns at the news.

Re the joint use of recreation facilities by schools and the city, as currently being proposed here: City of Millbrae and elementary district serving that area are also in process of negotiating such an arrangement.

More school stuff: South San Francisco school system has hired a dentist to inspect kids' choppers. Such a set-up was proposed as desirable here recently by the local district's health coordinator.

DAILY CITY WOMAN TAKES SLEEPING PILLS

Mrs. Wilma Ferguson, 151 Alexander street, apparently attempted suicide Friday night following a family dispute. According to police, her husband heard a thud in the kitchen. He found Mrs. Ferguson unconscious on the floor with a bottle of sleeping pills.

Failing to revive her, he called the police who transported Mrs. Ferguson to Junipero Serra hospital for treatment.

WEDDING PHOTO of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Mendelson, 155 Hillcrest drive, who were stricken by carbon monoxide fumes this week. Mendelson will be allowed to leave the hospital today to attend funeral services of his wife, Lillian, and daughter, Shirley.

Harry Mendelson will leave Junipero Serra hospital for a short time today (Friday) to attend the funerals of his wife and daughter who died from carbon monoxide fumes earlier this week. Hospital authorities announced his condition as "much improved" yesterday.

In a double tragedy, death took Lillian and Shirley Mendelson, 155 Hillcrest drive, Tuesday and Wednesday after they succumbed to toxic gas fumes.

A double funeral service will be held today at 11:30 a.m. in the Sinai Memorial chapel, 1501 Divisadero, for Lillian and Shirley Mendelson. Rabbi Elliott Burstein will officiate. Interment will be at Salem Memorial park, Colma.

Survivors
Mrs. Mendelson is survived by her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Becker; sisters Esther Ostroff, Bernice Blum; brothers Leo and Sam Becker. Other survivors include a son, Arthur Shulman of St. Louis, and six nieces and nephews.

Mrs. Mendelson, 46, was found dead in her Daly City home Tuesday morning by her brother, Sammy Becker, 158 Los Olivos. The unconscious body of the 11-year-old daughter, Shirley, was lying on the living room floor, not far from her mother's chair. Attendants at Junipero Serra hospital reported her death at 12:25 a.m. Wednesday.

Deputy coroner Bert Lasswell attributed the deaths to carbon monoxide poisoning, following an emergency autopsy.

Didn't Leave For Work
Sammy Becker told police that he stopped at the Mendelson home at 9:20 a.m. Tuesday. He had noticed that Mendelson didn't leave for work at 4 a.m. and thought he would drop in to see his sister. Inside, he found Mrs. Mendelson dead, slumped in a chair, the daughter and father unconscious. He called police.

Preliminary examination indicated food or carbon monoxide poisoning. According to the police report, the auto, in an attached garage, was not running but the ignition was turned on. As a precaution, all the food in the house was placed in the refrigerator and sealed pending analysis.

Monday night Mrs. Mendelson had brought valentines from Shirley to the girl scout troop of which she was a member. She stated that Shirley was home ill with a sore neck. She drove home, parked the car in the garage and went inside for a quiet evening with her husband and daughter. Tuesday morning her brother found her in a living-room chair facing the TV set.

Shirley attended the sixth grade at the new Colma school.

SHIRLEY MENDELSON, 11, followed her mother in death Wednesday after gas poisoning in the living room of her home.

NO TERMS YET IN GROCERY IMPASSE

A stalemate exists on the 15th day of the strike by the AFL Grocery Clerks union and lockout by members of the Retail Grocers association. The larger markets in Daly City have either signed with the union or are going right down the line with the association. The association has said that it is determined to fight the strike to the finish.

Al Mattson, Mattson's Family market, 397 San Mateo, expressed the over-all desire of the grocers: "I hope that they arrive at a settlement soon. Not only for the sake of the clerks' families but also for other businesses being affected by the situation." Ben Woodward, B&G Grocery, 5th Hillside boulevard, concurred with this hope.

Other grocers, unaffected by the strike and lockout, replied that "it's business as usual." Among them, Antone Burkard of the Market Basket, 6318 Mission, declared: "We pledged ourselves to serve our customers and that

Supervisor Callan Denies Charges

The guns of double censure were trained on County Supervisor Thomas J. Callan Sr. when real estate interests tangled in county duties.

The first rebuke came from Andrew J. Gallagher, director of joint highway district No. 10. A routine examination of bills disclosed that Callan had placed his bond with his son. Gallagher said: "I believe it is state law, Tom, that you can't do district business with relatives."

According to the director, the bond was placed through the Callan Realty company in Daly City. Callan answered "I hate to give that bond to an outside broker. They would want to know what money I owe and what property I own."

He added that he had not realized that it is illegal to place a bond with a relative. On that point, legal opinion will be obtained and reported on March 10. Last week the Colma supervisor was accused of self interest by a jury investigating committee.

Mary H. Hart, chairman, wrote in a report to the jury: "The writer is of the opinion that Mr. Callan has put himself on the board" (Continued on Page 2)

"Flying Saucers" Seen By Daly City Residents

Frank Kosta Jr., 4 W. Cavour street, called Daly City police Sunday night at 10:37 p.m. to report "flying saucers" over Jefferson Union high school.

Mr. Kosta said that he saw mottled white discs moving in a circle approximately 100 feet above the school. He described them as emitting a humming noise, about the size of a manhole cover, stopping for a few seconds and moving again.

Kosta told police that he watched them for 20-30 minutes. When he returned from telephoning the saucers had vanished.

Mrs. Massengale, 451 Templeton avenue, reported at 10:55 p.m. that she had been watching flying saucers for half an hour. She said the objects disappeared in a northerly direction.

COUNCIL MAY ACT IN FACE OF RECALL

Get Bus Proposals From Private Firms

The city council may pass ordinance establishing city manager form of government here Monday night, despite a threat that they would be recalled from office if the issue wasn't put to an election.

Before a capacity crowd that turned out Monday at the council chambers for public hearing on manager government, Abe Rabinowitch, 289 Wilshire, told councilmen, "You don't know what you're in for if you go ahead with this. I've got the papers ready now to start a recall movement."

Rabinowitch maintained that if the council wants to change its form of government it should do so by an election, rather than by ordinance. "I don't believe the people of Daly City know what's going on," he said.

Urges Freeholders

"If there's going to be any changes why don't you have a board of freeholders call an election to establish charter form of government?"

Mayor Joseph Verducci answered that the council had studied possibility of charter government and had concluded, "there's nothing we want to do that can't be done under sixth class city status." Under charter government, or "home rule," the city has local option in certain fields not specifically defined in law governing sixth class cities.

Papers Ready

At the close of Monday's hectic hearing Rabinowitch told THE RECORD he had already prepared necessary papers to launch both the recall to remove councilmen from office and the board of freeholders to work for charter government. "If they pass the ordinance setting up city manager government I'll start both of these in action," he stated.

Prior to the fireworks, Howard Gardner, associate director of the League of California Cities, told of the differences between the proposed city manager government and the city administrator type now in operation here.

"It's impossible for any five men in this city to sit on the council and carry out the day-to-day operation of your city—your largest single investment," Gardner said.

He explained that city manager government means "centralized responsibility for administration of all departments of the city."

Nebulous Responsibilities
According to Gardner, an administrator has "rather nebulous, indefinite responsibilities" given him by ordinance. The manager

Two Rap Council On Parking Plan

An attorney and a property owner protested the sites selected for the proposed municipal parking lot at the city council meeting Monday night.

Attorney Gray, representing himself as spokesman for property owners having land in the area proposed for parking lot, demanded to know if the council intended to notify his group as to time and date of further hearings on the project.

Mayor Joseph Verducci replied that the parking authority is merely studying the situation and has made no recommendations as yet. A legal note was introduced by Frank Blum, city attorney, who declared that a parking authority has no authority to condemn or purchase property until such power is granted by the council.

Gray was informed that his group would be notified of future hearings.

Further opposition to the proposed site came from Mrs. Rose M. Belli, 170 First avenue. In a letter to the council, Mrs. Belli asked, "Gentlemen, are you having delusions of grandeur, or have you gone stark mad?"

She argued that there is no need for a parking lot at that particular site (District III). Mrs. Belli asserts that private enterprise would build a lot sufficient to meet the needs of the area except for opposition by one merchant.

The property owner averred that there is no need for "wild and extravagant expenditures of public funds for something that is not an acute necessity." She protested the proposed lot as having "gigantic proportions" and as being "ridiculous and fantastic."

Backing up her avowals, Mrs. Belli cited neighboring shopping areas in San Francisco with what she termed worse conditions. She concluded by stating, "This proposed project looks like the work of impetuous youth; bold and rash, with a flair for the spectacular. It would be well gentlemen," Mrs. Belli advised, "if you would temper it with a little wisdom."

The representative also said he would consider providing transit for Broadmoor area citizens. Both transportation company delegates said they would have

DC-Colma Lions Plan Third Annual Youth Art Show

Preparations for the third annual youth-art show March 30 through April 13 at the community center were being made this week by Daly City-Colma Lions club, sponsors of the exhibit.

Elio Fontana, who will again act as Lions' chairman, announced that in order to make this year's display the "biggest and best," the show has been extended three days.

The chairman also reported that his club has allocated a larger budget for the undertaking to allow for superior displaying facilities.

Art entries are restricted to grammar and high school children. The thousands of entries submitted will be screened before display and every entry will be acknowledged, Fontana said.

Last year's exhibit drew praise from nationally known artist-sculptor Beniamino Bufano, who served as a judge.

Assisting Fontana as committee-men are Stanford Hannah, H. Z. Weibel, Ira Neville and H. E. Alfson.

Judges are now being chosen.

SMITH TRAILER COURT PROPOSAL HEARING MONDAY

Public hearing on Smith Enterprises proposal to construct a 76-unit, $175,000 trailer court on Brunswick street off Hillside boulevard will be held Monday night at the council chambers, beginning at 8 p.m.

The planning commission, in a unanimous vote last year, recommended that the council deny the application.

Hugh Smith Sr., representing the applicants, has claimed that the mammoth trailer court development would be beneficial to Daly City, both from an aesthetic and financial standpoint.

Lombardi Still Gone After Three Weeks

Frank Lombardi, owner of a Daly City automotive service, is still missing today after a hurried departure almost three weeks ago, according to his wife.

Lombardi has been mentioned in the Mabel Malotte vice trial as a key figure in trapping Mrs. Malotte's alleged call-house operations.

Lombardi, in testimony last week by San Francisco Police Inspector John O'Haire, was identified as the man who arranged for police investigators to contact

Run-a-Way Auto In Broadmoor Plows Into Home

A run-away car hurtled 228 feet down a street, careening off the sidewalk on to the road, missed three parked cars and then plowed into a residence in Broadmoor yesterday (Thursday) morning.

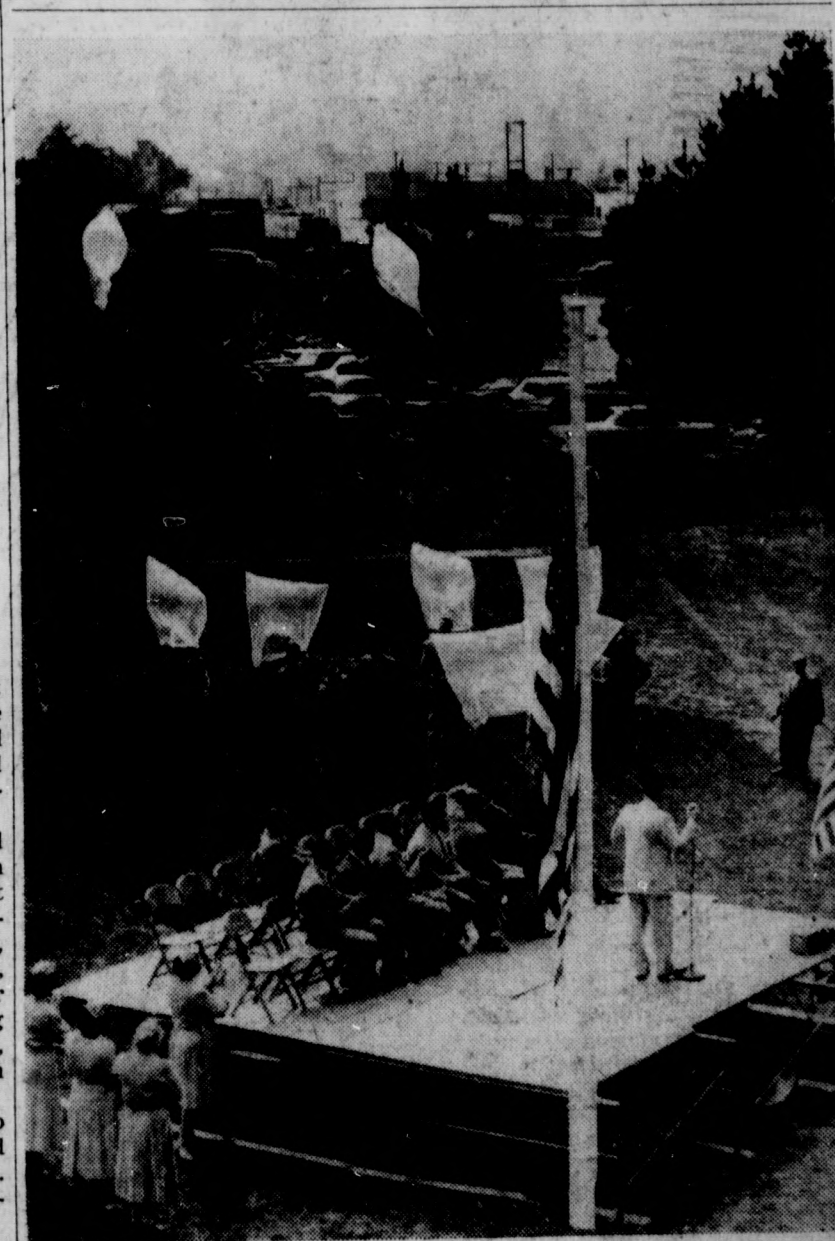

Police Chief Ray Savage said Mary Ellen Mikkels, 1069 Gilman drive, had parked the car in front of her house at 9 a.m. A few minutes later the auto broke loose, rolled 50 feet down the sidewalk, then headed down the street for nearly 200 feet before smashing into a home at 1059 Gilman drive, residence of Mr. and Mrs. John Cantone.

Savage said the driverless auto went right between three parked cars without touching them. There were no pedestrians on Gilman at the time.

Mr. and Mrs. Cantone were seated in their home at the time of impact and said it sounded like a bomb had been dropped. Neither was injured.

Bleacher Bids Held Over Until Monday

Three bids for supplying bleachers at the Daly City community center were held over by the city council Monday night.

Proposals entered included: Howard Hill, $5325; Bookman Co., $6681; and Beatty, $4686.95.

Estimate for supplying the seats was $5000. Council will award bid Monday night.

Set Two Hearings On Land Annexations

Public hearings on annexation of two uninhabited areas were set for March 28 by the city council Monday night.

Areas up for annexation include land in Garden Valley and Abbey Homestead. Asking that the areas be brought into Daly City are Thomas Callan Jr. and Ricco Lagomarsino, respectively.

is that we are doing."

The Hilltop Market, 6315 Mission, is one of the members of the association which has signed with the union. Picket lines were abandoned there when the grocer accepted the clerks' contract last Friday.

Employers representing 800 clerks met Monday night according to an announcement by the office of Francis Tisser, Retail Grocers' association secretary. "This enthusiastic group disproves the union contention that it has signed 84 per cent of the clerks," the spokesman said.

The association claims that a store-by-store check has shown that the figures released by the union are merely "whistling in the dark." "The members of the association are determined to fight this out," the representative declared.

On their side, the AFL Grocery Clerks' union maintains that two-thirds of the owners have signed contracts and that it is now a question of obtaining the rest.

The association filed four unfair labor practice charges against the union with the National Labor Relations Board Monday. Simultaneously, the union expanded its strike to the Crystal Palace market in San Francisco.

In the see-saw of charges and retaliatory moves, the strike moves into its second week without any indication of settlement. The association has charged that the union made bargaining on supervisory employees a condition for negotiations, and struck to force partners in a grievance to join the union. The union answered that "We do not ask partners to join the union, we merely ask that they refrain from performing clerks' work."

Members of the association, meeting Monday, declared the union demands are "unrealistic." They re-affirmed that the association will negotiate with union representatives.

Callan denied the accusation and said the charge was made by Kent probably because he had been unsuccessful in a mutual business deal.

"Since I've been on the board of supervisors," Callan declared, "I let the Jefferson High school district put me out of the hog business in Colma. I could have sold the land to Henry Doelger for much higher prices, but I didn't. Would you say that is protecting myself or the taxpayer?"

Mrs. Malotte and arrange for two call girls to visit them in a downtown San Francisco hotel.

Attorney Leslie C. Gillen, representing Mrs. Malotte, said in court that Lombardi was an informer who had turned on Mrs. Malotte after 20 years friendship with her.

Gillen also claimed Lombardi was "part and parcel" of an abortion ring in San Mateo county. Shirley Grimes, or "Paula Winters," was also brought into court testimony, as Gillen charged Lombardi had been responsible for her plunge into a life of prostitution and narcotics addiction.

Gillen said police pressured the local businessman and "gave him immunity for his criminal acts in order to have him entrap Mrs. Malotte."

Lombardi, who lives here at 140 School street, has been missing since just before the trial opened, an estimated three weeks. His wife said yesterday that she had "no idea" where he had gone. "I haven't heard a thing from him," she stated.

Gillen tried to subpoena Lombardi for testimony. Gillen asserts Lombardi is keeping in touch with his business by long distance telephone.

PIG BANK, FISHBOWL YIELD $45 IN COINS

A "piggy bank" and a fishbowl were robbed of $45 Tuesday at the apartment of Jacquelin Benton, 32 Hillcrest drive. The thieves apparently entered through a kitchen window, taking the bank with $35 and the bowl with $10.

Two men were seen by a neighbor going up the stairs to the apartment. One was described as 6 feet tall, between 25 and 30 years of age, wearing dungarees. His companion was about 5 feet 10 inches, approximately 25 years old. The loot must have been quite a load in their pockets—it was in pennies, nickels, dimes and quarters.

form of government, as provided for in state law through ordinances adopted by the cities, "attempts to define clearly the manager's duties," he declared, adding that, "It arranges for the manager to handle hiring, firing, budget matters and administration of all departments." Gardiner declared a manager ordinance "a positive statement of responsibilities."

"Some say a manager is a form of dictator," Gardiner continued. "Nothing could be further from the truth. In the ordinance it says positively that questions of policy are decided by the city council. The manager's duty is to carry out this policy, whether he likes it or not."

Gardiner concluded that manager form of government "is not a fact—it is here to stay."

Kirchhulb Speaks
George Kirchhulb, owner of a Daly City tavern, took the floor after Gardiner.

He asked if the council had set up qualifications for a manager and questioned the council's policy of passing the legislation by ordinance to save $4000 for an election.

At that point, Alfred Halpern, 26 Wilshire, arose, asking Kirchhulb if he would yield the floor.

"I will not," the tavern owner said emphatically.

Kirchhulb demanded to know if City Engineer Edwin Smith was doing a satisfactory job.

"We're not discussing him," reported Mayor Joseph Verducci. "Councilman Sanford Vickers interjected, 'One of the qualifications we're considering for a city manager is that he have engineering experience.'"

"In other words Smith isn't doing a job?" Kirchhulb asked.

Councilman Michael De Bernardi repeated the statement, "We're not discussing the engineer."

"Well how about the administrator? Has he done a fair job?" Kirchhulb queried.

Vickers answered, "We're not discussing personalities."

"Voters Have Right"

"The voters have a right to choose whether they have a city manager or an administrator," Kirchhulb retorted.

Verducci then replied, "The city administrator (Dan Andersen) has already resigned."

Kirchhulb went on to relate how he had asked that manager form of government be adopted here in 1946. "They put it to an election and it failed, 1036 to 1126," Kirchhulb said. "With that in front of you would you still pass it by an ordinance?"

Verducci said, "Yes."

Kirchhulb hinted that in event the legislation was passed by ordinance, a petition might be circulated calling for a referendum vote on the issue.

Halpern Returns
Halpern then gained the floor, charging a "point of order."

"The decision of whether to modify the government is of such magnitude that the council should not elect to accept the burden on their own shoulders," Halpern said, adding that, "You should resolve this to the citizens."

"Discussing qualifications of the manager is a waste of time until the council has decided whether it is going to order the change or refer it to the people," Halpern continued.

Halpern said he was the head of a newly-organized city group. "We're neither pro nor con on this matter," he said. "It came to our attention that the change might be a result of political prompting."

He declared for a new manager to come in under those conditions might hurt the government. "We want to avoid this. That's why we're asking for a referendum."

Asks Group's Name
Ed Whitney, 843 South Mayfair, chairman of the local police commission, arose from the audience and demanded to know the name of the organization Halpern represented.

"At present it's just a temporary group of civic-minded citizens," he replied.

Whitney fired back, "To me this is very cloudy. Where do you meet? What is your purpose?"

"This is out of order," Halpern countered.

Commenting on Halpern's statement that the change to city manager might be due to political prompting, Verducci said, "There's less political undertone with a city manager than in any other form of government. There may be political undertones in this group you represent."

"You misunderstood me. I said a referendum would remove all doubt of political prompting," Halpern replied.

Expense of Election
"We're concerned with the expense of an election," Verducci said. "We can save the city $4000 by passing this by ordinance."

It was at this point Rabinowitch entered the fray. "You'll spend more than $4000 a year by hiring a city manager," he said.

He then made his plea for charter government and threatened the council with recall if they passed city manager system by ordinance.

DRUNK DRIVER LOSES LICENSE, FINED $250

Grady Allen Clinkenbeard, 6725 Mission street, pleaded guilty to a drunk driving count at the municipal court of Judge Thomas Bocci this week. He was arrested at 11:30 p.m. Wednesday, following an automobile accident with Jesse A. Lowenstein at Hillside and Mission intersection. The sobriety test at Junipero Serra hospital proved positive. Clinkenbeard was jailed.

The 25-year-old teamster was given 15 days of grace in which to pay the $250 cash fine. He also drew a 30 day suspended sentence in the county jail and suspension of his operator's license.

ter government and threatened the council with recall if they passed city manager system by ordinance.

In answer to a statement by Vickers that the city hasn't given the manager form of government a good try, Rabinowitch retorted, "You haven't given anything a good try." His claim was greeted with applause from part of the audience.

Councilman Edward Dennis answered Rabinowitch angrily. "Your recall remarks are out of order. We can face every citizen."

"Never Locked Horns"
"I wonder," answered Rabinowitch, "You've never locked horns with me."

DeBernardi, commenting on Rabinowitch's proposal for charter government, explained, "We're changing the form of government so we can delegate authority to someone. There's nothing we can do under charter that we can't accomplish as a sixth class city."

"If you're aware of wrong-doings on the council as you said earlier," Vickers interjected, "Why don't you ever come up to these meetings to protest?"

"Due to business I haven't had time," said Rabinowitch, who is head of an attorney's messenger service. "Now I'm going to make the city my main job. I'm going to devote half my day to it."

"No Real Objections"
Walter Rector, 331 Woodrow, member of the parking authority, entered the debate: "I'm curious. We've been going into a lot of things and I'm confused. Supposing the city council changed the administrator's name to manager and gave him more power gradually. This wouldn't require an election, would it? The council is doing the same thing here only it's a package deal. There have been no real objections to passing city manager by ordinance."

Al Pettigrew, local service station proprietor, proposed to the council that City Administrator Andersen, himself, be allowed to comment on the situation.

Andersen replied, "I've already been quoted as advocating the city manager form of government."

"Speak For Me"
Concluding statement was made by Mrs. J. C. Heim, 16 Woodrow, who said, "It seems to me these men in front of us were elected to serve us. They can't be expected to take every issue to the voters."

"You people have the power to appoint, don't you?"

The mayor answered in the affirmative.

"I resent these inferences made here tonight against the council. These men (the council) speak for me." Applause followed her comments.

Other Action
In other action Monday, the council:

1. Accepted resignation of Andersen as city administrator, effective May 1.

2. Approved payment of $4233 to Westlake insurance agent Walter Brodie as acting broker for North San Mateo County Insurance Agents association, group that handles the city policy.

3. Approved payment of $1075 to City Engineer Edwin Smith for work on water projects in Westlake; paid J. N. Pitcher Co. $2394 as first installment for Westlake water plant project; paid Kennedy Electric $5000 as first installment for work on Westlake water plant; paid Bernal Construction Co. $1540.50 as final payment on Westlake sand trap.

4. Cancelled North San Mateo County Sanitation district taxes on land at El Portal way; cancelled state of California taxes on Skyline freeway.

5. Set hearings March 14 on rezoning property in Westlake Unit 5-H from C-1 to R-1 and C-1 to R-3.

6. Offered full cooperation on the Red Cross' one-day drive here March 5.

7. Donated $50 to Old Glory Post 2044, VFW.

8. Authorized payment of $2700 to John Q. Adams as first payment for installation of new roof on Daly City Reservoir No. 3.

9. Authorized payment of $4960.80 to Keyston Muni for Westlake Reservoir No. 2.

10. Cancelled taxes for Jefferson Elementary district land.

11. Introduced ordinance governing the license and sale of firearms, and ordinance correcting typographical error in zoning ordinance.

The meeting was adjourned to next Monday night.

Get Bus Proposals From Private Firms

proposals ready in plenty of time to submit at another transportation meeting March 8 at city hall.

Wilson Asks Parking
Councilman Del Wilson, at one point in Monday's meeting, suggested a large vacant lot on Junipero Serra be used as a central depot for commuters to park their cars. This, he said, would reduce traffic congestion in San Francisco and would increase revenues on the No. 76 line.

"We can go into the frills later," said Vickers.

Wilson says his proposal would mean rapid transit down town, which he says is of chief importance to most commuters.

John Drye, 148 Wilshire, remarked that it took as long as an hour and a half to get to downtown San Francisco from Westlake.

Subsidy Plan
Jack Kendree, representative of Henry Doelger, Builder, Inc., related to the group that the public utilities commission had met that day and postponed for two weeks any action on the No. 76 and No. 56 lines.

Kendree said he "hadn't given any thought" to changing the route of the No. 76 when Doelger's $600 a month subsidy goes into effect on that line for two months.

He said his firm would wait until the PUC had accepted the subsidy offer before making any plans.

Amos Bechtold, representing Broadmoor, asked, "Will you have authority to change the route?"

Kendree replied Doelger would naturally be given some jurisdiction over the line if he was underwriting it.

"Our purpose in subsidizing the bus is to keep it running while negotiations can be made," Kendree said. "It's the city's problem. The future of the No. 76 doesn't depend on Doelger."

"Got To Be Careful"
Commenting on the possibility of new bus lines being brought in to replace the muni, Kendree said, "We've got to be careful in talking about discontinuing muni service. Once they stop service here they're out for good."

Kendree maintained that with future population growth in Westlake, the No. 76 would soon be showing a profit.

De Bernardi summed up his stand on the bus situation by calling for better transportation. "If some other outside organization can give us transportation then that's fine."

He said the city should make plans for securing outside services in the event that the muni does pull out. "We should proceed on the basis that 'in case' we lose muni service we can figure out something else."

LONG DISTANCE LOVER GETS WRONG CONNECTION

Caree of a 19-year-old telephone lover was cut short Wednesday morning by Broadmoor police chief Ray Savage.

Mrs. Lorraine Sternberg, 433 C street, Colma, had complained to police that during the past five months she had been bothered by an anonymous telephone caller who made amorous and suggestive advances over the phone.

Savage had dropped in to see Mrs. Sternberg Wednesday morning to get more information on the case. While he was talking to the woman the phone rang. It was the anonymous caller. Savage instructed Mrs. Sternberg to invite the man over.

He arrived about 20 minutes later, walked boldly in, only to be rudely surprised by the appearance of Chief Savage.

The youth, identified as Gerald George Waters, 842 41st avenue, was released to custody of his father. Waters said he had called Mrs. Sternberg at least six times during the five-month period, Savage said.

POLITICS OR A WINDMILL JOUST

Unveiled threats of recall directed to Daly City's council Monday night were either politically inspired by the disgruntled or a 20th century attempt to put Don Quixote's joust with the windmills down as a second-string effort.

To hint recall because a councilman differs in a matter of policy is asinine. The recall is a safety device for the electorate to remove a councilman who might be guilty of extreme dereliction of duty.

A prerogative of the voters to be employed in a case of dire necessity, the recall, therefore, is seldom abused by indiscriminate application.

To set up the city manager form of government here by ordinance is within the council's powers. True, the matter can be submitted to an election, but so can a dozen other policy items.

The council represents the people. At least that's what we thought when several thousand citizens turned out at the polls last spring.

If the council has to run to the electorate on every controversial bit of legislation, then it's time to return to the town meeting type government as practiced by the early Grecians, where every citizen had to raise his hand and be counted on even the most picaresque subject.

The council's job is to set policy. If the voters don't like that policy they can express their sentiments by voting for somebody else next time.

Recall threats at this time are absurd.

Proclamation

WHEREAS: The Red Cross is an international organization whose members are "Good Neighbors" to those in distress all over the world, and,

THEREFORE: I, Joseph J. Verducci, Mayor of the City of Daly City, do hereby proclaim March 5th to be official "Red Cross Day" in this City, and do urge all citizens to "Join and Serve" their fellow men through our Chapter of the Red Cross, and make their contributions on this day of March 5th.

My Mad World

By Leonore Brewer

A friend and critic of long standing is fond of saying that we must be more flexible in our viewpoint. Brother, we just hit a new high in flexibility. We recently argued both sides of the same question within half an hour. The general terrain of battle was the subject of repertoire, with the first encounter waged around the ballets presented by the Ballet Theatre and Ballet Russe.

Upon our inquiring, a friend stated that he had not attended any performance because both companies persist in presenting the same old stuff year in and year out. We immediately seized our spear and shield and strode into battle for the thing we love.

Defensive Encounter
To a certain extent we were fighting a defensive encounter. Many of the ballets were older works, veterans of many seasons. But there was also a sprinkling of the new. True, "Swan Lake" should be shelved for five years at least, but many in the audience were undoubtedly seeing their very first "Swan Lake." And anyway, faults or no faults, unless the companies are supported there isn't going to be any ballet at all.

It was all very friendly. There was a good deal of shouting and arm waving and in the end an amicable agreement to disagree.

The second encounter was something else again. It was between the writer and one with whom we haven't much more than a bowing acquaintance. After this episode there won't be much use bowing.

This skirmish was over the repertoire of the Cosmopolitan Opera Company, now giving its second season of popular priced operas. Before we knew it we were in the midst of a deadly discussion (we can't call it heated, the atmosphere was icy) as to why opera companies insist upon presenting the same old chestnuts year after year. Somehow "Norma" and "Nabucco" entered the picture. We couldn't have made more unhappy choices. "Norma" brings visions of Callas, a soprano who has reached the pinnacle of her art and has a price to match. "Nabucco" is full of vigorous sweeping melodies but has been damned by critics as "early Verdi."

Council Accepts Resignation Of City Administrator

Resignation of City Administrator Dan Andersen was formally accepted by the city council Monday in a unanimous vote.

Andersen's resignation will take effect May 1, but he will leave his post April 8 because he has accumulated three weeks paid vacation.

The administrator's resignation followed city council announcement that they intended to inaugurate city manager form of government.

Upon our inquiring, a friend stated that he had not attended any performance because both companies persist in presenting the same old stuff year in and year out. We immediately seized our spear and shield and strode into battle for the thing we love.

LIBRARY NEWS

At the San Mateo county library's meeting held recently Rose Vainstein, field representative of the California state library, spoke on the nature and function of the state library in Sacramento.

The following facts are the highlights from Miss Vainstein's talk: The extent of the state collection consists of half a million books exclusive of documents; more than a million and a half documents; more than fifty thousand items in books for the blind; almost one hundred thousand items in the Suro branch housed at the main library in San Francisco; more than two thousand newspapers, mainly California publications.

The general responsibilities for library service on the state level are: Development of improved service on a state-wide basis; providing state employees and agencies (including members of the legislature) with information, reference service, and materials; supplementary reference and materials service to libraries throughout the state. These agencies include 208 separate public libraries, 86 law libraries, 326 special libraries, and 859 school, college, university and education libraries. The last item is to provide and preserve historical material relative to California.

Supplementary Types
The types of supplementary material handled by the state library consists of important books and items of permanent value, often technical and expensive which are not in constant demand, nor likely to be found in most general library collections. Only in very rare instances are duplicates purchased. Only foreign fiction is bought. The State Library has no light fiction, medical books or children's books, with the exception of those juvenile titles which are historically significant.

The State staff includes the librarian, Mrs. Carme Zimmerman, assistant librarian Ralph Blasingame, three field representatives, and the principal librarians with the two main divisions of reader's services and technical services. These main staff divisions supervise the 100 state library employees.

The responsibility of the reader's service section which has five main divisions, is to select materials and assist in their use and interpretation. The five sections are: Reference (best known section because requests are handled here); Administrative, legislative Reference (which serves as a liaison with legislators and state agencies); Law which is the oldest section and serves the Dept. of Justice, local attorneys, legislative councils, and prisons; California Section, which preserves history through collection of rare materials, manuscripts, diaries of the Gold Rush, Donner Party, and newspapers; Government Publications Dept., formerly known as the Documents Section. This section is a depository of federal, state, county, and municipal reports, documents etc. The above sections are Public Service sections which serve the reader by telephone, mail or in person.

The technical services consist of seven main sections—Blind, Book Repair, Catalog, Order, Periodical, Property and Shipping, and Photo Service. As indicated earlier, the request service which is handled by the reader's service section, is one of the best known and most frequently used. Miss Vainstein stated that last year this department received 50,000 author-title requests, and 8,000 subject requests. The speaker emphasized that visitors are always welcome at the State Library located in the Library and Courts building in the State Capitol. Short or extensive tours are conducted throughout the year as a public service to familiarize anyone who might be interested in the functions and operations of the State Library.

Daly City
The Daly City Public Library obtains many technical and specialized requests for borrowers through the State Library. Last year 85 such requests were filled from the state collection. French, Spanish and Italian novels are obtained for some of the foreign speaking borrowers, along with other specialized, technical and expensive material which is not obtainable elsewhere.

Hundreds of requests are also sent each year to the San Mateo county library in Redwood City. Through affiliation with the county library system, Daly City borrowers have access to 90,000 volumes in the county collection.

Thus through the State and County library systems, Daly City residents through their local library can draw from these two large supplementary sources for their reading needs.

The public library is concerned with the world of ideas, and with assembling, organizing, preserving and stimulating attention to recorded ideas. The public library has a definite educational function, and through cooperation with large units such as the county and state system, The Daly City public library is more fully equipped to provide the community which it serves with the best possible book service to every individual.

Safety News From Your Local Police

A complete report of Daly City's pedestrian accidents and its accident prevention program has been forwarded to the California State Automobile Association for judging in the American Automobile Association's annual nationwide Pedestrian Protection Contest. It was announced today by Chief of Police R. A. Petrocchi.

The Contest report form details accident records, enforcement, engineering, organization, school safety and public information activities conducted here last year.

The AAA will judge the city with other cities of the same population all over the United States. Winners in the contest will be announced this year after the board of judges, composed of some of the prominent men in the field of traffic safety, review all reports. In last year's contest, 48 states and 1,892 cities entered.

There were no pedestrian fatalities here during 1954. Looking forward to the city's 1955 record, H. Sundermann, Traffic Inspector, contest representative for the city, said that every pedestrian should follow these simple safe-walking rules to prevent fatalities and injuries:

1. Cross only at crosswalks.
2. Look both ways before crossing.
3. Never go into the roadway from between parked cars.
4. Watch for turning cars.
5. Cross only on proper signal.
6. Carry or wear something white at night so drivers can see you.
7. When you must walk in the roadway, walk on the left, facing traffic.

LION

TALES

By Joseph Bell Jr.

Beginning of Lionism

In 1914 in Chicago and throughout other larger cities there were numerous Business Mens' groups. Melvin Jones was a member of one group in Chicago. Melvin Jones had a vision of forming one important organization from all small groups. His aim was to have fellowship and perform services for fellow man. Named "The Jones Law," his dream came true in 1917 at a convention in Dallas, Texas, where these small groups merged and Lions International was born. Melvin Jones became secretary-general of Lions and still holds the same office today.

Standards

Name—Lions — Implying the bravest and most vigorous order of the species.

Code of Ethics — Living by this code would make men happy and free.

Objectives — Fellowship and Service.

Selection of Symbol — Lions head looking to north and to south, to east and to west, implying brotherhood of Lions everywhere, in every direction and in every country.

Slogan — Liberty, Intelligence, Our Nation's Safety.
Motto — "We Serve."

Program

Founders soon saw development of men in clubs and made provision to foster further. Result—Zone Chairman, Deputy District Governor, District Governor, International Directors and Officers. Watch their growth. Look at new president of club and compare him at end of year. Lionism has been organized for the past 38 years with terrific power. More than half a million men bonded together in thousands of Lions clubs all over the world could do almost anything they greatly wanted to do. Let us assert ourselves for peace and general uplifting of mankind. In next weeks column I will continue to explain the framework of the average club, the zone, the region and the district and finally

SEAMAN HOME AFTER SERVING IN FAR EAST

Don H. Morgan, seaman, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Morgan of 407 Hillside boulevard, and husband of the former Jean T. Lowrey of 104 Santa Barbara, serving aboard the USS Epping Forest (LSD-4) of the Amphibious Force, U. S. Pacific Fleet, returned from the Far East to San Diego Wednesday.

The Epping Forest, a landing ship dock, is commanded by Commander F. C. Fallon, USN. She will complete her third tour in Asiatic waters since her recommissioning in December, 1950.

This third Far Eastern assignment has been the longest trip of the three, mileage-wise, covering approximately 40,000 miles since leaving San Diego nine months ago. From the steaming hot summer months spent in tropical Indochina to the ice-bound winter in Korea and the Aleutian Islands, the Epping Forest operated in contrasting climatic conditions.

Most interesting phase of the cruise was probably the two trips to French Indochina during which the ship participated in Operation "Passage to Freedom," the evacuation and subsequent resettlement of loyal Vietnamese from Communist-held North Vietnam to southern Indochina.

Foreign ports visited by the Epping Forest included Pearl Harbor, T.H. Marshall Islands; Subic Bay, P.I.; Yokosuka, Sasebo, Japan; Buckner Bay, Okinawa; Cape St. Jacques, Haiphong, Tourane, Saigon, French Indochina, Inchon, Korea; Adak Island, Alaska.

LOCAL SERGEANT STATIONED IN PARIS

Army Sgt. Ka Tai Lee, 32, whose wife, Betty, lives at 36 Pearl street, recently arrived in Paris and is now a member of the 7th Signal Service Battalion. Sergeant Lee, son of Mr. and son Union High school. He is the son of fire Captain and Mrs. Frank Specht, 64 Guadalupe street, Daly City. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Wagner of Corte Madera. The bride and groom are leaving the honeymoon locale secret. They plan to live in San Francisco.

Ethel Waters, one of the greatest theatrical personalities of this century who has been compared to Nora Bayes and the unique Yvette Guilbert, will appear for one week only at the Geary Theater, San Francisco, beginning on February 21, in the "one-woman show" which Broadway critics acclaimed unanimously last season.

She calls it "At Home With Ethel Waters" or a sensational cavalcade of the songs, gay and sad, tragic and wryly comic, which made her name beloved during the decades when she commanded the musical comedy scene on Broadway and throughout the country. Her accompanist is the pianist-composer, Reginald Beane. There are two dozen songs in her repertoire. That is big; but is on display is the big heart of a woman, and the magnetic personality that has endeared Miss Waters to theatregoers for years.

In her vaudeville days, Miss Waters was billed as "Sweet Mama Stringbean" and since then she has made her mark in revues, musicals and serious drama.

Evening performances are at 8:30. The Wednesday and Saturday matinees are at 2:30.

CROCKER STUDENTS REPORT ACTIVITIES

The following are the articles sent in by Crocker students.

Fifth Grade
The children in Room 4 planned to take a trip to Morrison Planetarium February 9th.

The class listened to a very interesting science broadcast Thursday about mussels.

They learned that mussels can live where few other animals can exist. They produce busses threads to hold themselves fast to rocks and pilings. Also, that they serve as food to other animals.

The class received more library books. They are very happy with them and promise to take good care of them.

Sixth Grade
(Written by Linda Cole)

Our class has a kiln in our room. For Christmas we made ash trays and candy dishes for our mothers, which turned out very nice. Perhaps you are wondering how these dishes are made? First we make our clay figure, then we bake it to what we call Bisque. After it is Bisque we glaze it, then we bake it again.

We are also learning folk dancing and square dancing. We can get three squares going at one time and we all like it very much.

We have a chart for spelling averages of each week between the boys and girls. So far the girls are ahead. If the girls win the boys will have to buy each of the girls a candy bar or something, or vice versa.

NAMES HOPMAN TO RED CROSS CHAIR

Charles Becker, Daly City director for the Red Cross "one day" membership-fund drive on March 5, today announced appointment of Ted Hopman, Hopman Electric and Radio company, as chairman for business solicitation in Daly City.

Becker today expressed concern over the lack of interest in the forthcoming red cross campaign and again appealed for volunteers to offer a few hours of time to insure Daly City's making its quota of $2100.

KQED To Present French Lessons For Kids Fridays

KQED, the community television station, is presenting a program of French lessons for children every Friday from 5 to 5:15 p.m. on Channel 9. The new program "Chez Mimi" is the first time that a foreign language course has been offered via video in the Bay Area.

when fuses blow and leave you in the dark

...it may be time to have your home wiring system checked!

A blown fuse is a nuisance. But too many re-fusings may be a warning that the wiring in your home can't handle all the appliances and lighting. In 4 out of 5 homes (new ones not excepted) wiring is inadequate. To make sure your home is wired safely—and can provide all the electric current you need for the appliances you have now—or plan to add later—why not call in a qualified electrical contractor? New wiring—as well as appliances—can be financed on easy bank terms. If you're building, ask for a "Certificate of Adequate Wiring"—proof of a first-class job.

Residential Division Jewish Fund Campaign Appoints Mrs. Sampson Head

In anticipation of a tremendous twofold job of mass fund solicitation and interpretation of welfare needs ahead of it, the residential division of the Jewish welfare fund's 1955 campaign set the wheels of organization in motion this week with the appointment of Mrs. John J. Sampson as chairman and Mmes. Edward Matzger and Sam Sankowich as vice-chairmen.

In announcing the appointments, Campaign Chairman Samuel A. Ladar said, "The experience of these women represents years of dedication to community welfare activities. As spokesmen for the welfare fund, they can give eloquent testimony to the importance of the humanitarian programs of its agencies in the lives of every man, woman and child in the Jewish community."

As the wife of the chief of staff of Mt. Zion hospital, Mrs. Sampson has been active in the hospital's Women's Auxiliary and for the past three years has served in the fund's campaign organization through the Auxiliary's solicitation group. She is a director of the Women's Auxiliary of Homewood Terrace and a volunteer in the Irwin Memorial Blood Bank.

As assistants to Mrs. Sampson, both vice-chairmen bring a variety of organizational experience to their jobs. Mrs. Edward Matzger is a member of the board of trustees of the World Affairs Council, a member of the citizens' participation committee for urban renewal appointed by Mayor Robinson, and a past president of the League of Women Voters. She is also a director of the Jewish committee for personal service, a member of Mt. Zion hospital's Women's Auxiliary, and a campaign worker in the fund's women's division for many years.

Mrs. Sam Sankowich has been active in the women's division campaign organization since the welfare fund's first drive. She is a past president of the San Francisco Chapter, Women's American ORT and is currently serving as regional vice-president. A former president of the Sisterhood of Beth Shalom, she has also served on the boards of Hadassah and Mt. Zion Women's Auxiliary. She was also previously co-chairman of the women's division for the Israel bond drive in San Francisco.

First organizational job for the residential division will be the enlistment by Mrs. Sampson and her vice-chairmen of key workers on organizational committees. They will be assisted by Mrs. Murray Warshawer, 1954 residential division chairman, who will serve as consultant to the Division.

"In the hope of scheduling our one-day residential drive for early May, we intend to conduct early, intensive recruitment so that the all-important job of training our workers for the job of solicitation can get underway immediately," Mrs. Sampson declared.

Snell PTA Awards Life Membership To Mrs. Hazen

That PTA is an organization concerned with and about children was clearly shown during the program presented by pupils at the Founders Day meeting of the James L. Snell PTA Wednesday in the multipurpose room of the Garden Village school.

A play, "The Spirit of PTA," told of the founding of the organization, and presented the ten goals of all parent-teacher groups. These goals were symbolically represented by girls in pastel formal, grouped about Donna Dennis, who wore a crown and a white dress as the spirit of PTA.

The goals were given as good homes, sound health, safety, educational opportunity for all, preservation of human rights, conservation of natural resources, vocational adjustment, wholesome recreation, civic responsibility and active spiritual faiths. Students portraying these entities were Judy Marlowe, Kathleen Johnson, Carol Hadsell, Joyce Navarro, Judy Krueger, Linda Maita, Ann Irvine, Sandra Redford, Robin Frisch and Sandra Williams.

Barbara McElroy and Dorris Kluck were featured as the founders of PTA, Alice Birney and Phoebe A. Hearst, twins Larry and Gary Bose represented the parents and the teachers searching for a way to work together, and Stephen Elliott was master of ceremonies.

Mrs. Ruth Cornack, sixth grade teacher, directed the program, and Mrs. John Dennis was responsible for the costuming and staging, both of which were very effective. The student glee club, which sang two numbers prior to the play, was under the direction of Mrs. Virginia Schneider, first grade teacher, with Mrs. Lamont Sundman and Mrs. Marjorie Shields at the piano for the professional and singing respectively.

Mrs. Hazen Honored

In keeping with the fact that PTA is so concerned with the welfare of children, the honorary life membership, awarded each year to someone whose time has been voluntarily given to serve the children of the community, was this year given to Mrs. Charles Hazen. Mrs. Hazen, this year's hospitality chairman, has an outstanding record of service for children, both in the unit and in other organizations.

Other business before the meeting included the presentation of a new flag to the school by Mrs. Vincent Murphy, chairman of the flag committee. Miss Aileen Suber, principal, accepted the flag for the Garden Village school.

A committee was named to nominate new officers for the coming year. Those on the committee are: Mrs. Joseph Elliott, Mrs. Jack Baker, Mrs. A. S. Helmer, Mrs. Vincent Murphy and Mr. LeRoy Krueger. Mrs. Paul Talbot Jr., parliamentarian, will act as advisor.

Jenkins and Mrs. Paul Talbot Jr. Lewkowicz, on behalf of the district school board, of which he is a member, extended an invitation to attend board meetings, held at 344 Santa Barbara, on the fourth Wednesday of each month.

The attendance prize was announced at the end of the meeting. It was won by Mrs. Ballou's fifth grade class.

Room mother hostesses were Mmes. John Peebles, Vic Guz, John Dennis, Walter McElroy and Glenn Whaley, assisted by Mrs. Ralph Coppola and Mrs. Gene Luttringer.

REBELS CONTINUE TO PACE REC BASKETBALL

Colma Rebels, surging back strong after last week's initial loss to Westlake, continued their domination of the Daly City Recreation Basketball League "A" division Saturday with a 41-13 rout over Brisbane at the community center.

Brisbane gained a 4-0 advantage in the first quarter as John Galten hooked one in and Bob Straussberger hit the mark on two free throw attempts. Their lead was brief.

With two minutes left in the quarter Colma applied the backcourt pressure and sped to a 16-9 half-time lead.

A tight man-to-man in the last half kept Brisbane's offense at a standstill, while the Rebels continued to connect at ease on fast-break plays.

Burley Leads
Don Burley, hitting 10 in the final quarter, led scoring with 16. Brisbane's Galten, league's leading scorer, was held to a measly eight, as he was hounded by Larry Schoenfeldt.

Sharp Park hit their stride again after losses on two consecutive Saturdays, trimming O.L.P.H. 24-5. The Coastsiders amassed a 17-3 half-time lead and then turned on the defensive pressure in the last half, holding O.L.P.H. to two free throws.

High scoring honors went to Sharp Park's Gary Twitty with eight, followed by Dave Simmons, six, and Keith Moreland, five. Henry Caldwell, up from the "B" division, where he at one time was top scorer, popped through a pair of field goals for the Coastsiders in the first half.

Westlake, currently in a tie for second in the "A" division with Sharp Park, drew a bye Saturday.

OLPH Pressed
In "B" division play at the local pavilion pace-setting OLPH were hard put to defeat a stubborn Broadmoor Cardinals quint, 13-10.

Broadmoor started fast with Jim Heick and teammate George Muller hitting field goals to put the Cards out in front at the quarter mark, 4-2. OLPH's Bill Whalen wiped out Broadmoor's advantage in the second quarter as he hit two field goals and a free throw. Half-time score was tied at 7-7. Whalen picked up five more markers in the third canto, while Webb Parker hit a free throw for the Cards, leaving OLPH with a

HAWKS TOPPLE 'CATS IN BROADMOOR PLAY

Underestimated by virtue of only one win in four starts, the Hawks knocked a surprised Bobcats five from their joint hold on first place, 34-20, in last week's Broadmoor Youth association cage play at the Jeff High gym.

Every player on the Hawks' roster scored in a contest that was never in doubt. Hawks led 18-14 at half time.

George Muller and Jim Heick, banging in four field goals apiece for eight points, shared Hawk scoring honors. Key to the Hawks' decisive upset could be found in the box scores. The Bobcats league-leading scorer, Wayne Moon, was held to his lowest point total of the season—a puny four. Moon's scant output still left him way out in front for individual honors with 65. In fact, the list of top ten scorers has remained the same for several weeks, with only a slight shift in order.

Wildcats took over undisputed first place (4-1) last Thursday as they barely got past a fired up Demon club, 30-28.

Dixie Howell of the 'Cats and Bill Dougherty of the Demons matched buckets to make it a close game all the way. Both wound up sharing scoring honors with 11 apiece.

Webb Parker popped in seven tallies for the Wildcats to maintain his runner-up position in the scoring race with 55.

Terry Tracy tanked nine for the losers cause.

Wildcats and Hawks were scheduled to tangle yesterday (Thursday) at the local gym, while Bobcats meet the Demons.

Village Notes

By Gwin Mitchell

For some toe-tapping, shoulder-straightening music time in KGO on Saturdays at 5:45. You'll hear recorded music of the Sixth Army band at the Presidio. What you may not know is that the leader, CWO Louis Ferraro, lives on MacArthur drive with his pretty wife and three little girls. Maybe you remember the twins, Mary and Elizabeth, who modeled in the James L. Snell PTA fashion tea last year and stole the show. . . .

Holmes Mitchell, one of our neighbors on Maddux, left Tuesday for New Orleans and the Mardi Gras. He will be back at the end of the month, after a visit with relatives there. Our typewriter ribbon wrote this down in a pale green, slightly evocative color—what a wonderful trip to have! Have a fine time for all of us, Holmesy. . . .

Another surprise baby shower, this one for Louise Cloonan of Village Lane. Co-hostesses were Mrs. John Tyler and Mrs. Ernie Del Debbio, who invited guests from San Francisco, Westlake and Garden Village to Mrs. Tyler's home in Westlake. Friends from Louise's home street were Betty Bullen and Marion Olson. . . .

That 87th street is the busiest place around here . . . everybody is always doing something! Stella Magoon had the Sewing Circle for lunch. Mary Hess has been having a time for herself with five children around; she's met herself coming and going! And the Bob Hanrahans have had Lois' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Schwerpfeger, visiting them from Kansas City, Kansas. This is not the first visit. . . . maybe they'll be Californians yet. The climate is a large factor in consideration, with nine inches of snow back there, and children rushing the barefoot season out here. . . .

On second thought, Village Lane didn't do so badly this week, either! Nina Marie Varni moved in with brothers Joe, Bill, Pat and Mike and started things off in a big way with 8 lbs., 4 oz. to her credit. . . . And Barbara Bullen reached the ripe old age of four, celebrating with a morning Valentine party attended by Susan Hazen, Jeannie Olson, Timmy Pappas, Sharon Seovel, Martin Cloonan and brother Mike Bullen.

The welcome mat is out for several new families: the Walter Hendrix family on Maddux, the Gordon Zook family on Manila and the Joseph Tucker family on Wildwood have joined our ranks here in Broadmoor. When the moving-in confusion has settled, we hope you feel right at home and find lots of new friends. . . . Sorry to hear that Maddux driver's Susan Swanson has had a bout with the chicken pox. We know, from experience, that it's not much fun, and hope Susan will be back in school before long. . . . And Jan Rizzo has had measles for company over on Sweetwood. Too bad—Jan—hope you're over them now.

Quite a lot of teenagers had a preview of a college campus when they went up to College of the Pacific last Saturday to attend the Presbyterian Youth Congress. Taking the trip to Stockton were Jerry Rosenberg, Edyth Mullen, Mike Mullen, Claire Wittig, Jim Treanor, Nancy Golladay, Sherry Sisk, Beth Brownlee, Betty Sue Berry, Bob Berry, Jill Dougherty, Jean Roller, Judy Galant, Cloe Ann Mowatt, Dick Maville, Bill Lamson, Gwen Anthony, Marcia Smith and Frances Rossio.

The Rex Bells of Garden Lane recently had as visitors two young women from England, who stopped off for a look at California on their way back home after 1½ years in Canada. Both Toni Backhouse and Peggy McDowall, in the week they spent seeing the sights of San Francisco, couldn't exclaim enough over the stores, and found the clean whiteness of the city homes something to appreciate. The lucky girls are going back home on a freighter by way of the Panama Canal, a trip which will take a month. Back home in England, Toni lives in a charming old vicarage, a neighbor of a brother of the Bells.

Stork Specials: Margaret Mary arrived at the Richard McHugh home on Wildwood recently, to the delight of sister Kathleen. Weight? 6 lbs., 9½ oz. . . . And the Robert Dini family on Bradley welcomed 7 lb., 8 oz. Laurie as company for sister Robyn. . . .

Long distance Stork Special: Marie Marie Tapp arrived in Chicago on February 7, delighting mother Marie Jean and double-delighting proud grandparents Rev. and Mrs. John A. Glasco of Larchmont, drive. The newest member of the Tapp family brought 8 lbs., 3-ozs. of baby charm with her. . . . The Glasses recently entertained Mr. and Mrs. Ernest W. Fry, who came in on the Lurline from Hawaii, and stayed over a few days before going home to Prosser, Washington. It was there that the two families began their friendship quite a few years ago, and what with sight-seeing and catching up on news, the visit was a busy one.

New entrants into the interior decorating field are the members of the Broadmoor police department. They spent a busy week-end painting and rearranging the interior of the police station, and it is something wonderful to see!

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Foss, one-time members of the 90th street clan, came down from Sacramento recently and stopped off to visit the Ray Logans for a day or two. Dinner in Chinatown gave the friends time to catch up on doings since the Fosses left. Seems that news of our bicycle school had reached Sacramento—wonder how?

Stewart avenue's Mary Skillman joined the current trend by having a Tupperware party, another "crazy hat" gathering. Daisy McGrath walked off with first prize; her hat involved all sorts of equipment borrowed from Podesta and Baldocchi, where she works, intertwined around tin cans—quite a fetching floral affair! Meredith Orloff took second prize with a lighthouse, no less! Sharing the laughs were Irene Katsarski, Lucille Dempsey, Roslyn Navarro, Hazel Eagleton, Eva Halstead, Conchita Rizzo, Betty Carrigg, Betty Lowe and Marion Hill. Ruth Edal was the Tupperware representative.

Kay Mullen is beginning to plan for her trip to St. Louis, Missouri, when she will be a delegate to the National School Board association convention, to be held February 24 through 26. It's a long way from Stoneyford to St. Louis—hope the weather reaches here here to there! Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lewkowicz will be going, also. For the benefit of newcomers to the area, Mrs. Mullen and Mr. Lewkowicz are members of the school board of our elementary school district.

David Bryce is back home at Garden Lane after a trip to the hospital, where he left his tonsils. We heard that he is fine, which is very good news.

Maybe you've noticed it, too . . . the different sort of feeling in the air which comes with Almost-Spring. It's a softness, a waiting, a warmth which means green things growing and flowers getting ready to brighten up the brown garden corners. . . . The nights are not quite so clear and remote, a little friendlier; even the rainy-grey skies are not stern any more. So take a little time out for dreaming, before thinking about painting and gardening and plans for this and that.

Benjamin Franklin School
Throughout Boy Scout week, each class took charge of leading the entire school in an outdoor pledge of allegiance and in the singing of "America." Class representatives were the leaders.

87th Street School
Mrs. Lockwood's second grade has completed its work unit about community helpers. . . . Mrs. Seaman's second grade class has had the community for its latest work unit. . . . All the classes studied the life of Abraham Lincoln in connection with his birthday, and Valentines were also the order of the day for some days before the 14th.

Mrs. Carle's first grade had a birthday girl, Maureen Jadecik; February 13 is her special day. . . . Not to be outdone, two birthdays turned up in Mrs. Ferneke's first grade; Lynn Parkison on February 10 and David LaConte on February 9. . . . Bonnie Mize and Bobby Hollenbeck have been having a bad time lately, one with mumps and one with tonsillitis. Hope they are back in Mrs. Ferneke's classroom by the time this is printed.

Garden Village School
Last week James Tormey, San Mateo county superintendent of schools, and H. Z. Weibel, superintendent of the Jefferson Elementary School district, visited the school, a visit which was a pleasure for the visitors and the staff and students as well. . . . Mrs. Holman's kindergarten have a beautiful Valentine garden. . . . Two kindergartners, Phyllis Cohen and Nan Miller, celebrated their sixth birthdays; they are pupils of Mrs. Shields' kindergarten have a science table as a project. There are cotton plants, two turtles, six fish, birds' nests, sweet potato vines and string bean plants. . . . The fifth and sixth graders who participated in the PTA program last Wednesday should be very proud of themselves. They did splendidly, and the whole program was very effective.

Two Children Treated At Hospital Last Week
Michelli De Vito, 5, of 117 Glenwood avenue, suffered cuts and bruises on her chin and lips last week when she fell on a concrete step. Also treated at Junipero Serra hospital last week was William Wells, 7, of 246 Miriam street. William suffered a lacerated scalp following a spill near him home.

Ridgley Cummings Reports

JUST HACKING ALONG
Below is a bit of verse dealing with the frustrations of taxi drivers.

I don't go so far as to call it poetry. Good poetry requires no preface or explanation. You read it and it's like you have been hit over the head with a rubber mallet. It rocks you. Or in the parlance of the younger generation, it sends you.

I don't expect this ballad to send anybody. But it ought to appeal to cab drivers. And ex-cab drivers.

Being a cab driver is somewhat like being a reporter. When I worked on newspapers, half the people I interviewed used to tell me that once upon a time they were newspapermen themselves. Now a good percentage of the males who jump into my cab start up a conversation by remarking that they used to pilot a taxi years ago. And even a few women boast that during the war they drove a hack.

Not As Proud
But the women aren't as proud of it as the men. We live in a society that places a premium on conspicuous leisure and the successful female is the one who has found someone to support her.

Top dogs are the women who wear fur coats, fingers loaded with jewelry, and men with spotless white shirts and a flawlessly pressed suit, who couldn't possibly change a tire without wrecking their appearance. Their costume is proof positive that they do nothing useful, that they are consumers who don't have to bother with the sordid business of earning a living.

Driving a cab is a good thing to have done in the past. It sounds rather romantic, like having served in the French Foreign Legion. But if you see a Legionnaire sweating it out under the African sun or a cab driver cruising the boulevard, looking for a fare to take to the airport and build up his book, your feeling is not envy or admiration so much as a sense of relief you're not in his place.

There shouldn't be any stigma attached to driving a taxi, for it is an honest occupation and a socially useful one. But the fact remains that most of the drivers feel they are only doing it temporarily and have prompt and logical explanations for their present position.

I'm no exception. Bouncing around Los Angeles' 436 square miles, from Beverly Hills to Pasadena, from Hollywood to Alhambra, I meet all sorts of acquaintances who want to know why I'm not still busy writing the great American novel.

Parenthood, I tell them. Another dependent. I've recently acquired another dependent. I am now the father of Faye Lenore, a two month old beauty who weighs 13 pounds, is 26 inches long, has big blue eyes and a toothless smile—that wrenches your heart strings.

Faye Lenore is in style. She's a tremendous consumer. She puts away six bottles of milk every 24 hours, and just last week she added pabulum and strained fruit to her diet.

As fast as it goes in one end it comes out the other. I don't know how many dozen diapers Faye Lenore has, but most of them are in the laundry all the time and there never seems to be enough around the nursery.

And blankets. That girl uses up blankets like General Mark Clark used up infantrymen during the Italian offensive.

You can't get formula and diapers by writing sonnets, so that's why I'm driving a cab these days.

But I didn't mean to make this introduction so long. All I started out to do was explain some of the technical terms in the verse that follows. Like most professionals, cab drivers speak a language all their own, sprinkled with expressions not found elsewhere.

Deadhead Off

For instance, to deadhead off means to drive away empty from a phone stand where you have been waiting for a telephone order. Dead, or unpaid, mileage is a reflection on a driver's efficiency and makes the company unhappy. So you try to keep it at a minimum but sometimes you land in an area where there is no business and the only alternative to dying on the vine is to deadhead off.

The book is the nemesis that hangs over every driver's head and tends to give him that lean watchful look. Under union compulsion the cab company guarantees each driver a minimum day's pay. But the company expects the driver to bring in enough money on the weekly average to make up for the guarantee and show a profit after gasoline and depreciation costs. The amount you have to bring in is the book and the most prevalent reason for involuntary terminations (vulgarily known as firing) is low booking.

The public utility commission requires the driver to keep a record of all fares collected, with the time and place of the trip's origin and conclusion. This information is written on the waybill and if your waybill is empty then you aren't setting any records.

No-Load Obvious
I think that covers the terms used below, except for no-load, which is practically self-explanatory and means that you have answered a telephone order only to find another driver has guzzled your fare or that the prespective passenger has found other means of getting to his destination, a situation which most drivers deplore.

Anyway, here's the verse:

CAB DRIVER'S LAMENT

An empty cab just cruised the stand,
The driver horns you the old beep-beep;
He's looking for a place to land,
You found a place all right—to sleep.

Your waybill's like a freight car siding,
As empty as a B-girl's look,
Potential fares are all in hiding—
Watch the meter, make the book.

The Yellow box is dumbly sleeping,
You checked the phone, it's on the hook,
All down the street there's nothing creeping;
The switch is on—just make the book.

The minutes pass, you watch the time go;
The newsboy says you got it soft,
You're only eight miles from the depot,
Maybe you better deadhead off.

Just then the phone rings, that's a break,
You give your number to the girl,
Write down the address so there's no mistake,
Sail round the corner in a whirl.

You punch the bell at the right location,
Wait some more, your cab on the road,
Your fare has blown, no explanation,
Your flag's still up—another no-load.

LEO SLAMS FOE TO WIN MAT TAG EVENT

Leo Nomellini hurled Roberto Pico into helplessness Monday night at Daly City community center to gain victory for himself and his partner, Ramon Torres, in the tag team feature on the all star professional wrestling card sponsored by Holy Angels church of Colma.

At 22 minutes and 45 seconds of the scheduled one-hour match, he lifted the 245-pound Pico of Mexico, rolled him over his back, and threw him through the ropes onto the mat's apron. Pico was counted out, to give Nomellini and Torres the first fall, but lay on the canvas, unable to continue, and the contest was awarded to the popular duo.

Wind Knocked Out

Pico was prostrate, his arms and legs entwined in the ropes, for several minutes. At first it was thought his ribs were broken, but he had only had the wind knocked out of him.

Pico's teammate was Gene Dubuque, who started the contest against Torres. The match was lively for all of its 22:45 minutes and had the kids screaming, shouting, whistling and calling advice to Leo.

Leo, who hadn't been in the contest yet, tried to drag Torres out of the ring to tag him, but the referee intervened. Ramon rolled and Nomellini tagged and the Lion charged into the arena.

Waiting For Battle

Leo slammed himself against the rope, bounced at a right angle to the next strand and hurled himself at Pico and Dubuque, both of whom were waiting to do battle. Both scampered speedily to the safety of the outer ledge.

Pico returned and Leo lifted him and slammed him to the floor and Torres punched him in the face as he lay there. Dubuque came in and Nomellini decked him and twisted his leg while Torres stood on his head.

Pico came back and Leo punched him, knocking him through the ropes and on to the floor. Pico, also known as "Pancho," got back in before the 10-count, and Nomellini put a hard pressing twist on his right leg. Seconds later, the match ended.

Perspiration rolled from the wrestlers, sprinkled the ringside fans and put an odor of combat in the auditorium. There was humor as well as mayhem. Torres, standing on the ledge, continuously untied the rubber rope to force the other wrestlers to lose their footing.

Nothing of a final. Where west where white always slay "villain" of the victory Monday.

Bone-Breakers English Lord from Manchester employed by "heavies." First he leaped behind Cooper to kick him in the back and floor him, then put an arm lock on his head. Cooper broke free and jumped on Bears' shoulders.

Bears took a strong hold on Cooper's right toe and twisted, but Carl turned himself into a sitting position on Bears' back with the latter on his knees and used a leg press.

"Ride him, cowboy," a kid yelled.

When Cooper put a head lock on him, the spectators whooped and cheered.

"Osc him," a kid yelled. That's grapping lingo for "spin him around by his bushy hair."

But the joy was short-lived. Bears stood on Cooper's left hand, lifted his back onto his knee, and put a tight, twisting press on his right arm. Cooper broke free, smacked Bears on the chin, and the latter rose, backed away, raised his right hand and screamed "stop, stop."

Wins First Fall Cooper put a hard scissors on Bears, squeezing his head between his thighs. But Bears twisted free and jumped on Cooper's knee, incapacitating it momentarily to win the first fall in 14:15.

When the match resumed — it was scheduled for 45 minutes or two of three falls—Cooper turned Bears' own tricks on him and showed some new ones of his own, and his supporters howled in glee.

He broke a foot twist the Englishman had on him by twisting Bears' ears, and the latter walked out of the ring.

Cooper then used the technique Bears had employed to gain a fall: He twisted his toe and jumped on his knee.

"No! No!" Bears yelled. "Let that leg go."

A child called: "Kick him in the face."

Bears downed Cooper, jumping on his hand with one foot and on his head with the other. Cooper bounced himself off the ropes and hurled himself at Bears, bowling him over. But, when he tried the same thing again, Bears rolled Cooper over his back, dumped him on the canvas and pinned him for a three-count and victory in nine minutes and 59 seconds.

Opener Draw

The opening match was wrestled to a 20-minute draw, featuring Joe Pazandak of Minneapolis and Ramon Cernados of Buenos Aires. Pazandak is known as "The Champ." For many months on a TV program, he was undefeated.

Both men are heavily muscled beef trusts who, together, scale a quarter of a ton. They both used scowling facial expressions that brought "uuuuuuuhs," from the spectators.

Both attacked with hard right fist punching to the face, stomach and abdomen. Early in the go, Ramon got a tight head lock on Joe, then twisted him over his back and slammed him to the canvas. Joe banged his right knee into Ramon's stomach. Ramon twisted Joe's hand and Joe moaned: "It hurts."

Then Pazandak put a hard hand squeeze on Cernados' neck and chortled "squel, squel." Cernados cried, "don't, don't."

The kids were vociferous, but apparently didn't take sides. They pulled for both, shouting "bite him, kick him."

Joe slugged Ramon on the chin and hollered "watch your fist!" Cernados kneed him in the stomach.

When the bell sounded ending the match, both were punching and neither would stop. For a full minute, they stood toe to toe, taking turns hooking each other with strong right-hand blows to the face.

The show in Daly City community center was sponsored as a benefit by Holy Angels church and promoted by Frank Malcovicz. It was sanctioned by the California state athletic commission with Jack Horan as inspector. Officials were Jack Wagner, referee; Bryant Kevin Epidendio, announcer; Lou Lichtenstein, timekeeper, and Dr. Robert Terry, physician.

Jeff Quints Eliminated From PAL Title Hopes

A sharp-shooter from Burlingame named George Conner handed Jefferson High school's varsity basketball team their fifth PAL loss Tuesday.

Anxious for victory after their Friday night shellacking by Capuchino, the Jeffs held Burlingame to a 30-30 half-time tie in the contest at the Panthers' court Tuesday.

A few minutes into the third session, the Indians barreled to a 40-32 advantage. PAL games have been won with smaller totals.

With his team behind eight points, Conner cut loose with a 12-point barrage on long-distance stuff. His teammates added ten more to give the Burlingame five a 52-44 third quarter edge. After that the Jeffs couldn't regain the lead, although they battled almost evenly with the 'Caps in the last quarter, getting 17 to Burlingame's 18.

Highest Total Point

The point total for Burlingame was the highest of the season, while Jeff had only hit in the 60s on one other occasion.

Babe Anguillo and Al Figone shared Jeff scoring honors, each with 16.

Conner got 23 to rank high for the evening. His teammate, Gaven Dunn, also scored in double figures, netting 20.

The Indian 30s had hopes of a championship thoroughly doused by the Bearcat lightweights as they suffered a 37-31 defeat.

The Blingums took over, 18-9 at half-time, added three points to their lead in the third quarter and sent in the reserves in the final period to score five points against Jeff's 11.

Gonzales Off

Pacemaker Rich Gonzales had a bad day at the basket, registering only two field goals, although his defensive work was up to par.

Larry Kennedy topped scoring for the Daly City club with 13. It was a dismal week all the way around for the Jeff aggregations, as they dropped a pair Friday to Capuchino.

The Caps extended their league record to eight wins in nine outings as they wallopped the local varsity, 70-50, behind Jerry Bachich's 27 points.

The Mustangs, mainly on Bachich's efforts, took command, 34-22, at half-time.

Although the game reached proportions of a brawl at points, Jeff had the distinction of not registering a single foul in the first half.

Control Boards

Capuchino had scoring their own way in the second half as they took 50 rebounds off the boards, compared with 22 for the Indians.

Figone managed to keep the Indians in range in the first period. After that only Wes Yates could do any damage on the scoreboard for the locals, hitting 21 for the day, his best effort this season.

In a low-scoring tilt, Caps 30s outdistanced the Daly City palapousses, 36-25. Only Larry Pottinger was able to put two figures in the scorebooks for the Jeffs, notching 11.

Jeff fell behind, 13-9 at half-time and gave ground by one point more in the third quarter to trail, 18-13. The Caps cut loose for 18 points in the final frame, to 12 for the Indians.

The Jefferson varsity, with four wins, five losses, will try to hit .500 per cent tonight (Friday) at the local gym when they go against Carlmont, victors by two points in their last fray with the Indians.

Daly City lightweights, now sporting two more losses, bring a 5-4 mark on the floor tonight against a Carlmont club they handled easily in the first round.

Next Wednesday the local quintets tangle with San Mateo at the Bearcat pavilion, starting at 3:15 p.m.

Coach Mike Orlich's crew has accepted an invitation to compete in the Oroville tourney March 3, 4 and 5.

LUIS MOLINA AND BOB McIVOR GAIN NOD IN OLPH BOUTS

The thump of leather on a granite chin echoed off the walls and reverberated through the Daly City community center Thursday night as Lightweight Luis Molina slugged out a four-round decision over Washington Kingsby in one of the two main events on the OLPH amateur boxing card.

In the other headliner, Stanford's heavyweight intercollegiate champ, Bob McIvor, lunged a left jab into the face of Al Fletcher of San Francisco Royal Athletic Club to take a split verdict.

Molina, 135 pounds, who defeated North American Amateur Lightweight Champion L. C. Gage here October 28 and battered Bill Orais December 2, bombarded Kingsby of Oakland with rights from all directions. He used hooks, jabs, crosses, roundhouses and modified bolos, and, sometimes, he'd raise his right high over his head in the Kid Gavilan style, wind it up, take aim and shoot.

Ripped Full Force

Kingsby took some of the shots on his arms and gloves, but many of them ripped full force into his stomach and on his chin. Invariably, he'd counter with a jolting left and a right cross.

Occasionally, when Molina scored with a haymaker, he'd stop fighting momentarily, expecting Kingsby to drop. Instead, the game little Oaklander would be on Luis, in close, slugging.

In the first round, Molina landed an overhead right to Kingsby's chin that struck so hard and soundly that the 510 fans felt it and winced, but Washington didn't evidence by expression or act that he had felt it—he just countered with a powerful left jab.

In the second round, Kingsby floored Molina for an eight count with a short, hard left uppercut, but the fall looked like a slip and the fans jeered the count. Molina pushed Kingsby across the ring and into the ropes and the audience booed him.

In the third round, Luis smashed Kingsby with all the strength he could muster, hitting him repeatedly with devastating rights to the head. But Washington wouldn't go down. Instead, he answered with a two-fisted counter-attack that had Molina cornered on the rubber-covered ropes. The fourth round went much the same.

Indecisive Win

McIvor's win over Fletcher wasn't decisive. Some fans booed the decision, some cheered it. Almost always, Bob kept his right glove in a defensive position under his chin and hardly used it a dozen times in the four rounds for offense. But Fletcher had no defense against McIvor's long-range left jab that hit relentlessly on his nose and mouth. Al did well in the in-fighting, using a one-two combination of short lefts to the ribs and rights to the face. Their battle was strenuous and left both exhausted.

Westlake Lounge awarded a $7.50 merchandise order to the fighters of the best bout of the six preliminaries, judged by audience applause. It was captured by Charley Martinez of Santa Clara and Ric Rios of San Francisco, 122-pounders. Martinez won the fight, Rios an eight-inch reach advantage and knew, in the first round, how to use it. He stood back and hurled looping lefts and rights into Martinez's face.

In the second round, Martinez bulled his way in close and banged Rios with body hooks and sharp uppercuts. The third round was a whirlwind of punching that had the fighters arm-weary and the fans roaring.

Charles McDougall of Daly City scored a TKO over Bill Moon of Hunter's Point Athletic club to climax a dramatic encounter.

Both are excellent boxers and both pack kayo powder in either fist.

McDougall, 150 pounds, gained an advantage late in the first round when he lodged a triphammer right in Moon's stomach. But Bill went ahead in the second round as McDougall took an eight-count on his feet. Moon had swarmed over him with flying fists, first stunning McDougall with right uppercuts, then backing him into a corner where he slammed him wobbly. Referee Nick Bosnich pushed Moon back and Timekeeper Frank Ingersoll tolled off eight seconds while McDougall stood.

McDougall found the range in the third round and belted Moon with left hooks and hard over-the-shoulder right wallop while Bill kept going with his attack.

McDougall's sharpshooting gave him an edge in the fourth round, when, after 47 seconds, Moon dislocated his right arm at the shoulder and Dr. Don Estrada stopped the bout.

Dave Silva of San Francisco won a TKO over Jerry Rickman, 140 pounds, of San Francisco in 1:36 of the second round, when Dr. Estrada stopped a fight because Rickman sustained a bad cut on his left eyebrow.

Boxing Robot

Robot-like Manuel Gonzales, 122 pounds, of Hunter's Point Athletic Club, won a slugfest from George Angles of Mountain View. Expressionless, dead - pan Gonzales, fighting with the efficiency of a machine, bloodied Angles' nose in the first round, and, by the second, his own shoulders, chest, arms and gloves were smeared with gore. Gonzales used a methodical technique to land solid blows steadily throughout the three rounds, while Angles flurried, often charging him like a bull with both fists pounding.

Phil Boyd 170 pounds of Booker T. Washington at San Francisco utilized a left jab to take a three-round decision over Quizzie Vickers of Hunter's point. They fought a free-wheeling battle with many misses and many hits and won a rousing ovation from the fans.

Mike Mitchell of Sacramento and Arthur White of Oakland did an exquisite polka in the first round of their match that wasn't appreciated by the fans.

Dance And Sway They had been bounding up and down in unison, dancing and swaying, looking for openings but seldom striking.

In the second round, the boys changed the tune and so did the audience. White started things off with a machine-gun body attack, but Mitchell almost ended everything by landing a stiff uppercut to White's jaw, and following it with a two-fisted attack that led Bosnich to stop the melee while White took an eight-count. In the third round, White had to weather a two-minute storm, but took everything Mitchell could throw and fought back, even though he seemed outclassed. Mitchell gained a unanimous decision.

The judges were Jack O'Brien, Toby Irvin and, Joe Ray. Scotty Butterworth announced.

The monthly amateur boxing bouts are sponsored by the Men's Club of Our Lady of Perpetual Help Church to raise funds for the Church Boy Scouts and Cub Scouts, to buy gymnasium equipment and to help finance the church youth recreation program. Committee members are Richard Liberty, Bob Lynch, Walt Gillies and Bob Lynch.

The bouts are sanctioned by the California State Athletic Commission, which furnishes officials.

Michael Maffei, who sings "The Star Spangled Banner" to open each of the programs, was presented a gift wrist watch by the Men's Club of OLPH last Thursday night in the ring.
